On Tuesday died, at his Episcopal Palace, aged Seventy-sive, Cardinal Querini, Bishop of Brescia, Librarian of the Viatican, and President of the Index Expurgatorius Bench.

Rome, Jan. 10. It is reported, that a Legate, or Extraordinary Nancid, will be sent to France, to accommodate the Affairs that relate to the Clergy. But this will depend on the Advices which the Pope shall receive from his Nuncio now at Paris.

Briscia, Jan. 10. Cardinal Querini, Bishop of this City, died Yesterday, after a tew Days Illness, aged about Seventy-five, much regretted by the learned World, as he was a Member of several Academies, particularly of that of Berlin, and had largely contributed out of his Purse towards the Roman Catholic Church lately built in that City. This Prelate was raised to the Purple in 1727, by Pope Benedict the 13th. Vienna, January 11. We wait impatiently for apother Courier from Constantinople, with the Refult of the Divan which the Grand Signor order'd to meet the 18th of last Month. Some People, who pretend to be well acquainted with the Temper and Character of Osman the Third, assure, that if some Military Qualities have been observ'd in him, this Disposition rather proceeds from a View to secure the Affection of the Janissaries, than from a firm Resolution to follow that Bent. However it be, it is certain that all the General Officers of the Troops in the Hereditary Provinces, are order'd to repair hither, to receive Directions from, her Imperial Majesty about a new Repartition of the faid Forces. Copenbagen, Jan. 11. Christenings in this City last Year, 2736. Burials, 2542.

December 24. They write from Paris, that their Court does not take Umbrage at the new Treaty between Spain and England, because the Spanish Ministry have affur'd the French Embassador, that this Treaty does not contain any Articles prejudicial to the Commerce of France.—Therefore, 'tis possible that it may not be very advantageous to Great Britain.

January 28. To be flow to Wrath, and averse to Revenge, is both prudent and religious in private Persons, who ought calmly to expect Reparation from God and the Law: But a whole People, when abused, ought to be keen in their Resentments, and quick in taking Vengeance; these being laudable and politic Virtues, without which they will never thrive, never be effected. For a Nation to suffer itself to be ill used, is of dangerous Example, whether those that use it ill be its Neighbours or its Natives: Patience, in this Cafe; invites fresh Injuries, and that People, who would not bear neary Infults, must not bear one.

It has generally been the Misfortune of this Nation to be too slow in referting the Encroachments of France, and taking Measures to frustrate her ambitious Designs; and the this Slowness may pass for an Indication of a magnantum and general statements.

nerous Spirit, which is willing to give Aggreflots.
Time to reflect on the Confequences of unjust Provocations; yet it can never pals for good Policy, especially when exercised towards an ill Neighbour that has amuled and tricked us an hundred Times over and over, and never negotiates but with an Intention to over reach. Delays double our Difficulties, and encrease our Expenses, and sometimes one Year loft in temporizing, has been the Caule of a War's lafting seven or ten Years, which might have been put as End to it less than half the Time have been put an End to ih less than half the Time, had we run to Arms as foon as the Enemy's Defigns became apparent. Whether any Time has been loft within these two Years, we shall not enquire, nor pretend to determine; it is enough that there are good Grounds for us to relt faiisfied, that no more Time will be loft.

Qa Priday was presented to the House a Petition from the Town of Birmingham, praying for an Amendment of the Broad-wheel Act. As this is an Affair of the greatest Consequence to all the Trading Towns in England, and wants nothing but Numbers to obtain a proper Attention, it's hoped their good Example will be follow'd by other Towns affected. A Petition is attended with no Expence, and will not be too late even a Fortnight hence.

We are affur'd that the Scheme for converting Dean's yard and the adjoining Houses into a Square of a very large Extent, for Boarding-Houses, &c. for the Reception of Scholars coming to Westminster School, is intirely laid aside, and tis now proposed to build a grand School in Tothil Fields, where there is a Piece of waste Ground of fixty Acres, in the Middle of which a mignificent Square is to be erected, with an Area of 1000 Feet for the young Gen'lemen to play in, out of School Hours. One Side of this Square is to confift of Houses for the Head and Under Masters and Ushers, a noble School room, with convenient and separate Lodg ings for the King's Scholars, a Hall to dine in, and a Theatre to act their Plays in at Christmas. Two other Sides are to conflit of good Boarding Houses, with pleasant airy Gardens, for the Reception of young Noblemen and Gentlemen that come for Education to Westmirfter-School. The fourth Side is to confift of a very fine Chapel in the Middle, and on each Side Houses for a Physician, Apothecary, Surgeon, Officers, Servants, &c. A Colonade is intended to be built round the Infide of the Square, under which the young Gentlemen may walk dry to and from their Lodgings to the School, and will be a proper Place to play in bad Weather. There will be two large Gates into the Square, the one from Hyde Park, the other from Westminster-Abbey, with large Avenues of Trees lessing to each. In the Center of the Square is to be placed a grand Statue of Queen Elizabeth, their illustrious Founderess, carved by Rysback, and a Busto of the great Dr Busby, in a Hatch, over the School Door. Tothil Fields is a fine gravelly Soil, very airy in it's Situation, just out of the Noise and Hurry of the Town, and yet so near it, as to afford every Convenience, and much more out of the Way of Temptation: There, the Morals, as well as the Education of the Youth, will be under the immediate Eye of their Masters; and in all Pro-bability, the young Geatlemen will be much healthier than they can be in the Croud and Smoke of a City, and less liable to the Contagion of the Small Pox. This is a Scheme universally approv'd, as it injures no private Persons in their Property, which would juitly raise a great Clamour, and is in every respect suitable to the Dignity of the first Seminary of School Learning in Europe. The Press continues very warm for Seaman, and also for Landmen to serve on board the Guard.

A Letter from Chatham mentions a Number of Sailors being press'd there, at Stroud, and other Places out of the Liberty of the City of Rochester, as well as out of the Colliers and Vessels in the River Medway; and that the Report of the Mayor of Rochester's having back'd the Warrant, and giving Leave to press in the City, is without Foundation; it being inconfishent for him to give up any of the Privileges of that City, and especially one which they enjoy'd all the last War; and that not out of any Opposition, but as being necessary to promote the Trade of the Place.

Extract of a Letter from Parit, January 17.

It is certain that the Court has iffued Orders for fitting out at Breft and Rochefort, fix Ships of the Line, five Frigates, and ten Transports, which last are to mount from five to ten Guns. It is likewise true, that a Body of 3 of 4000 Land Forces is to be emballed in those Ships is but we are also affured that this Armanian is but we are also affured that this Armanian is made with no other Delign than to reinforce the King's Possessions in America, in cale Means cannot be found to accommodate the Difpotes amor be round to accommodate the Dipotes about Limits in that Part of the World.
